

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information recording method for recording information on a recording medium, including providing a recording medium having first and second areas, the first area for recording and reproducing video information, the second area for recording manager information, the manager information being referred to when the video information in the first area is reproduced, the video information including an object file for storing movie and/or still video objects, the manager information including video manager information containing information related to the movie and/or still video objects stored in the object file, the object file including manufacturer's information, the manufacturer's information including manufacturer ID and manufacturer's data, recording the movie and/or still video objects in the object file, recording the video manager information in a third area in the second area, and recording the manufacturer ID and manufacturer's data of a specific manufacturer in a fourth area in the object file.